YOUNG ORATORS TALK

First Annual Contest of the Foundry Epworth League.

Mr. W. H. Kerr Wins the First Honors -His Address Was on Mastery-The Other Orators.

The first annual oratorical contest of Foundry Epworth League took place last night at Foundry Church. A gratifying interest was manifested in the event. Mr. Harry G. Kimball played an organ voluntary and Mr. Sykes offered prayer. Chairman Tyler announced that at the last Oratorical Association. Each Epworth League chapter would have a contest, and the winners would be pitted against each other finally in an inter-chapter tussle. The Epworth League was not purely a religious society. It had its social phase, and oeliev-ed that the spiritual upbuilding of man was assisted by mental improvement. This was the first affair held in the city. Other socalled oratorical contests had been contests of declamation. In this event the speakers were the authors of what they spoke. He then introduced Miss Clara K. Bartlett. Her subject was Savaranola.

The Speakers. She introduced her auditors to Florence, not the Florence of our day, but the city of five hundred years ago, when Lorenzo de Medici, Lorenzo the Magnificent, held sway. She told of the introduction to public notice of her hero, of his trials, disappointments, victories and execution. She said that his Lincoln Relics, 516 10th st. n.w.-Open daily delivery was characterized by earnestness rather than by eloquence: that his personal magnetism and the loftiness of his thoughts caused him to live after death. The charge that he was simply an ignorant fanation was refuted. She touched on the fight against Pope Alexander and referred to the ingratitude of nations. He was not an iconoclast, but a reformer of social ills. All men who gave good thoughts to the flavoring of pessimism in the address, with an undertone of religion. He said that every generation had its problem to solve. The distinctive characteristic of the nine-teenth century was material development. Man had asserted his dominion over the earth. ST. JOHN'S SERVICE.

A Large Congregation Listens to Dr. Mackay-Smith.

An unusually large congregation filled St. John's Episcopal Church at the Thanks giving service today, the regular attend ance being swelled by the presence of many members of the parish of St. Michael and All Angels, who had been invited to worship at St. John's. The rector of St. John's, Dr. Mackay-Smith, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Clarence Wyatt Bispham of St. Michael and All Angels, the Rev. Mr. Bigelow and Rev. Mr. Wood,

This man was Francis Gallagher, the keeper of a saloon at 1136 21st street northwest. For a number of years the victim has conducted the saloon at the place mentioned, where, the police say, he dispensed 5-cent whisky. About ten years ago Gallagher was arrested and tried, with a man named Robert Orr. on a charge of manslaughter. Stephen Terrell was found dead in a lot adjoining the saloon kept by Galiagher and the latter was suspected of having been partly responsible for his death. He was tried and acquitted, while the other defendant was convicted. Gallagher continued in the business of selling liquor, although he had not been granted a leense for this year under the new law. Yesterday and last evening he was about his place as usual, but he gave no intimation of what he intended doing. His wife retired at her usual hour and his son Joeph went upstairs only a short while be-ore he started for his bel room.

Instead of removing his clothing, saying his prayers and retiring as had been his custom the unfortunate man walked to the bed and took from beneath his pillow barrel of the weapon to his right temple, a pull of the trigger followed and Francis Gallagher's earthly career was brought to a sudden termination. Neither Side Could Score - How the Game Was Played-Championship Still Undecided

The closest and most exciting, if not the finest, exhibition of foot ball playing that has been seen here in late years was put up at Y.M.C.A. Park yesterday afternoon when the Central and Business High School teams battled for the high school championship. The game was not to decide the championship of the High School League, governing the contest, and sat with pencil and paper keeping taily. The contestants were Miss Clara K. Bartlett, Miss Anna B. Bush, Mr. W. H. Kerr and Mr. George F. Cahill. Mr. Kerr was declared winner, with Mr. Cahill a close second. The young ladies were prime favorites, and the friends of each seemed to think that their choice neither team was able to carry the leather over the other's respective goal lines, making the score of the game the phenomenal one of 0 to 0. At one time the Centrals had the ball within nine yards of the Business He said that the greatness of the Ameriof a touch down, but in both cases little

The blue and orange, for the Business, and the blue and white, for the Central, were the predominating colors, but occasionally an Eastern or Western student could be seen who wore his own school colors and was not particular which team won, but wanted to get his money's worth of foot ball playing. Both teams were very evenly matched, both as to weight and science, and when one team would make gain by forcing their way, the other would follow with a neat little trick which would give them a gain of a few yards. was no sign of slugging throughout the game. The Centrals put up a very game, which looked at times as if they were trying to kill time, while the Business boys played a quick game and improved every moment of their time. The Game. The game was called at 3:40 o'clock, with

Mr. Clark of the C. A. C. reserves officiating as referee, and Mr. Taussig, captain of the Western team, as umpire. The Centrals chose the ball and Barnard led off with a clean gain of eighteen yards, being downed by Carr in one of the prettiest tackles of the game, Tindall following parnard for a gain of two yards. Mills fumbied the ball and Lewis, for business, pickes it up and made a gain of one yard; Lyman then went through the center for three yards and then Lewis attempted to buck center; he lumbled and De Saver regained the pali for Central. Tindail gained ten yards around right end and immediately ionowed with another gain of six yards through the center. It will be for the benefit of the Colored Young Men's Christian Association, and as both are well-known speakers the church should be crowded.

The Austrian Imperial Band.-An audience increased in numbers and brilliant in composition again listened to the Austrian Imperial Infantry Band at Convention Hall last night. The program given was exceedingly attractive, including the "Oberon" overture, Conductor Ziehrer's descriptive work, "The Dream of an Austrian Reserv-ist," and other numbers equally interesting. A pleasant surprise and great enthusiasm was manifested when, in response to an encore, the band struck up Sousa's "High School Cadet March," and played it with excellent effect. One of the most artistically played selections was the "Romantic Sere nade," a trio for violin, 'cello and harp, performed by Messrs. Kunitz, Jufe and Mosshamer. The popularity of Franz Hell is thoroughly established and his solos upon the bugle are a feature of every concert. As was stated yesterday, the band has canceled its Baltimore engagement and will remain here all this week, giving concerts every night and a matinee on Saturday. German Military Bands.-These famous bands of the German empire, consisting of eighty musicians, who play on reed and brass instruments, will give three popular concerts at Convention Hall Tuesday and Wednesday nights, December 5 and 6, and on Wednesday afternoon. This is undoubtedly the largest reed and brass band con-cert organization before the public. After the close of the world's fair it was the urgent request of many of the large cities that these bands visit them before returning to their native land. The three concerts that are to be given in Washington will be the only opportunity offered the music lov-ers and public in general of hearing these great bands. In some of the cities that they have already visited they were ten-dered ovations, receptions and parades. The infantry band of fifty-five musicians is under the direction of Mr. Ed. Ruscheweigh, the royal Prussian music director The cavalry band of twenty-five men be-longs to the Guard Du Corps of Germany, considered to be the finest regiment of the German army, and is the life guard of the emperor. The program for each concert is different and is composed of selections of some of the well-known composers and popular compositions of the day. The prices of admission are popular, 25, 50 and 75 cents. Seats can now be obtained at Metzerott's music store. "Our Boys" by Amateurs.—Last night at National Rifles' Hall the Sheridan Dramatic Company presented the comedy of "Our Boys" in a very creditable manner. All the characters were well taken, but the most enthusiasm was manifested over the per formance of Belinda by Miss Daisy Ham This young lady is also connected with the Linthicum Students' Club, and the members of that organization attended in a body and gave her a hearty reception. The Sheridans contemplate presenting "How She Loves Him."
